

Friends in Christ,

As we finish our journey through the beautiful painting by Tom DuBois called the Triumphant Entry, we draw ever closer to the center, where Jesus has always been waiting - to touch us as he is touching the beggar in the picture. Martin Luther's last written words, scratched on a piece of note paper and found after his death, were "Wir sind bettler - Hoc est Verum!" a mix of German and Latin to say what all of us must also confess as we reach out for God's grace: "We are beggars - this is true!" And our Savior, Jesus has come to fill our cup and lift us up to a new and abundant life.
